Position Code and Position Title

CSC148H1F-B: Introduction to Computer Science - Regular TA

Qualifications

Must be enrolled in, or have completed, an undergraduate or graduate program in Computer Science. Introductory programming courses or limited programming experience is NOT sufficient. Must have strong knowledge of basic data structures (stacks, queues, linked lists, binary search trees), recursion, object-oriented programming in Python, and introductory complexity. Experience with a debugger, unit testing, and demonstrated interest in face-to-face teaching is required. Demonstrated strong written and oral communication skills required. Must be available for at least one two-hour, in-person, lab section. (see the University's Timetable Builder for section times: <https://ttb.utoronto.ca/>). Must be available during regular business hours to complete all other assigned duties. This course has specific in-person, on-campus requirements as listed in the "Duties" section; please only apply if you can meet the availability criteria.

Relevant Criterion

Previous experience is the more relevant criterion than the need to acquire experience in respect of this posted position.

Duties

Duties are done in-person unless otherwise indicated. ALL TAs may be required to lead weekly labs to assist in classroom activities (see the University's Timetable Builder for section times: <https://ttb.utoronto.ca/>). Other duties include grading course assessments, holding office hours, and monitoring the online discussion board. CSC148 labs will be held fully in person. TAs must be able to be on campus regularly to perform their duties. This course also requires all TAs to be available to attend regular marking meetings and mark the final exam online and during business hours.

This course also requires all TAs to be available to mark the final exam in-person during regular business hours. The final exam date is determined by the Faculty of Arts & Science and may be scheduled between December 10 – 22, 2026. The exam schedule is released in November 2026. Every effort will be made to schedule and complete the exam marking within 5 business days after the final exam date. TAs may be required to complete grading January 6-11, 2027 if the exam is scheduled during the last few days of the exam period. The University is closed for the holiday break between December 24, 2026 – January 5, 2027.
