Position Title

Introduction to Software Engineering - Lead TA

Qualifications

Must be enrolled in, or have completed, an undergraduate or graduate program in Computer Science. 1. Organization Skills: You need to be able to manage yourself, your teams, and partners assigned to you effectively, and work with other TAs. 2. Communication: You communicate effectively with different types of people. This includes students to executives at our partner organizations. 3. Professional experience in a leadership capacity in a software or data engineering team in North America: This is 100% hands-on course for the students and you need to have enough technical and leadership depth and experience to lead their projects working with community partners. 4. Proactive Leadership: Given the nature of the partnership in the course, there will be unexpected and new situations to work through. You will be provided a framework for decision making and need to be able to make decisions and act with minimal supervision while leading others. 5. Previous experience as a project-based course TA (e.g., CSC301 or CSC207) is an asset.

Relevant Criterion

Previous experience is the more relevant criterion than the need to acquire experience in respect of this posted position.

Duties

Duties are hybrid; mostly remote but some in-person duties may be required. Planning and coordinating meetings. Overseeing other TAs work. Review and edits of course material including assignments, policies, project requirements. Prepare tutorial material and holding tutorials. Serve as the first line of support for TAs and students with regards to special cases and challenges. Hold office hours and email communications. Monitor online discussion board. Manage project grading. There is no final exam in this course.
