

CSC290: Grammar Worksheet

Some of the following sentences contain ambiguous pronoun references. Correct the sentence so that all references are clear. There may be multiple ways of correcting a sentence.

1. Jake told James that he passed the course.

2. The code is written in the programming language Perl. It is difficult to read.

3. In the syllabus it says that we have six grace tokens.

4. Write code as though it is written for another person to read, and incidentally for the computer to run.

5. Writing prose is not like writing code. It requires a different kind of creativity.

6. Emily will write the code. Samantha will review it. She will then submit the code.

7. Code review is an important part of your job. It is imperative that you do it.

8. Most people think writing is not important. This is false.